PURPOSES AND DESIRES. It will be observed, as noted in the public press, that the editor of the CITIZEN has extended his field of newspaper work, having purchased a controlling interest in the Fredericksburg (Va.) Free Lance. On the first day of January he entered upon the active duties as manager of that paper, which is so wellknown and, he believes, much loved throughout the First Congressional District of Virginia. In this connection, and for this purpose he writes-to inform the patrons and readers of the VIRGINIA CITIZEN that his efforts and labors in behalf his hands the same care and attention that it has always done, and he believes that in entering upon a broader field of journalism this paper will be benefited in many ways.
